Producer of Exceptional Women on Magic 106.7
Public Affairs Director of Magic 106.7

With over 13 years of Radio experience, Melissa's career started back in 1993 while attending Bridgewater State College. When a professor recommended she seek a career in broadcasting after hearing her speak the first day in class. She soon got a shift on 91.5 WBIM and loved being behind the microphone.

After graduation, she attended the Connecticut School of Broadcasting. Her first paid radio gig was a small station in Nashua, New Hampshire at 106.3 WHOB. From there she went to 97.5 WOKQ and 104.5 WXLO working 7 overnights a week.

Then, she was off to Boston landing a part-time gig at Greater Media's Magic 106.7. And also scored a job as a freelance News Writer at Channel 56 for the Ten O'clock News. She did all this in addition to attending graduate school at Emerson College in Boston, where she graduated Cum Laude in 2002 with her Master's in Broadcast Journalism.

Not long after working for Magic 106.7 sister station Country 99.5 came calling and, soon after, 92.9 WBOS as well. These days, Melissa keeps busy by working full-time for Greater Media splitting her time between working on-air at Country 99.5 WKLB and Magic 106.7. In addition to her on-air shifts, she produces Exceptional Women and is the public affairs Director of WMJX.

In her free time, Melissa coaches and judges competitive figure skating, and is busy working on her first children's book.
